

Lewis Closes Coal Mines In East; Protest Against Boyd

By HAROLD W. WARD
Washington, March 12 (AP)—A two-week coal shutdown will start in the east Monday as John L. Lewis' latest protest against President Truman's selection of James Boyd as bureau of mines director.

Lewis' announcement yesterday stirred swift demands in Congress to keep a big club against major strikes in the impending labor law. But it caused little concern over the loss of fuel.

An abnormal 45-day supply is on hand; about 70,000,000 tons of bituminous coal. A 30-day backlog is considered normal.

"Memorial Shutdown"

Technically, Lewis described the walkout of about 400,000 members of the United Mine Workers east of the Mississippi River as a "Memorial" shutdown, or mourning period permitted under his contract with coal operators.

Miners west of the Mississippi, in areas where the winter has been unusually severe, were not called out.

Those who leave the pits Monday, the mine chief said, will be mourning the 1,015 miners killed and more than 50,000 injured last year.

The move was another in a long series of Lewis attacks against the nomination of Boyd, appointed to the post in March, 1947. Except for five months, he has been serving without the usual $10,000-a-year salary.

Says Boyd Not Suited

Lewis insists Boyd is not suited for the post because he has never actually worked in the mines. But Boyd's backers claim the director, former dean of the Colorado School of Mines, has an excellent two-year record in the position and that deaths in the mines have dropped since he took office.

Although he has served 24 months in the post, Boyd has never been officially confirmed by the Senate.

The president has stubbornly stuck by his choice. Starting with a recess appointment in 1947, he has continued reappointing Boyd as director whenever it was legally necessary to renew the neglected nomination.

Lewis has pounded away at Boyd from the first. His latest move angered many congressmen.

New Talking Point

For one thing, it created a talking point for those fighting to retain the 80-day Taft-Hartley injunctions as a weapon in national emergency strikes. This has been a focal point in the bitter wrangle.

THREE DISTRICTS FINISH R.C. DRIVE; NEED $4,602.09

Three districts have submitted final reports in the 1949 Red Cross fund campaign in Adams county. Philip M. Jones and Richard E. Dreas, co-chairmen for the chapter drive, said today. Three other districts have not yet submitted any reports and five others have sent in only partial reports on the results of their canvasses.

The completed districts are New Oxford, only district to date to go "over the top" on its chapter assigned quota with a total of $890.13; New Chester which gathered $139.25, and Cashtown, $497.60.

These partial reports have been received: Upper Adams, $1,347.72; York Springs, $354.55; Littlestown, $785.50; Gettysburg R. D., $273.37, and Gettysburg borough, $2,294.79. All districts reporting have already passed the half-way mark on their quotas, the chairman said.

Only Fairfield, East Berlin and McSherrystown have not yet submitted reports.

The latest total announced by the chapter headquarters is $6,582.91, leaving $4,602.09 yet to be raised.

WILL INSPECT UPPER ADAMS 2-ROOM UNITS

A survey and inspection tour of the two-room elementary units of the Upper Adams school system was voted priority as the most urgent piece of business to be undertaken by the newly-created Upper Adams School Commission at its meeting in Biglerville high school Thursday evening.

The trip, which will include visits to the schools at Bendersville, Locust Grove and Wrensville, is being planned as a fact finding expedition out of which recommendations may be made to assist the school board in solving the primary grade classroom shortage anticipated for next year. Inspections will be made at the time of the next regular meeting on March 24.

The Upper Adams school commission is an unofficial group of citizens of the school area organized for the purpose of making a long-range survey of the educational needs of the community. It proposes to make recommendations to the school directors based on its studies of conditions as well as on its appraisal of public reaction to questions of building, financing and curriculum of the schools.

Members of the school commission include: L. V. Stock, general chairman; Mrs. Louella M. Arnold; Melvin Breighner; Dale Crum; Clark Fetters; Clair Grim; Charles Gulden; Roy Heckenluber; Mrs. Clayton Jester; Fred Lewis; Mrs. Marshall Longenecker; Arnold Orner; Zeal Peters; Mrs. E. B. Romig; Mrs. George Schriver and Willis Weigle.

CARS DAMAGED IN COLLISION

Automobiles driven by Anna Mae Hankey, 19, of Gettysburg R. 4, and Eugene George Baker, 35, of York R. 5, were damaged in an accident at 2:25 p. m. Friday afternoon five and a half miles east of Gettysburg on the Lincoln highway, according to a state police report.

Police said the Hankey car slowed to make a turn, and Baker ran into the rear of it. Damage to the Hankey automobile was estimated at $50, and to the Baker car at $175.

Two persons were injured and taken to the Harrisburg hospital Thursday night, state police reported today, as the result of a collision at York Springs.

They said a truck operated by Russell Hinkle, 29, of Spring Grove, proceeding south of Route 15, started to make a left turn, and the car of Morris Portney, 59, of Enola, going north, struck the rear of the truck.

Portney suffered lacerations of his lip and leg, and Mrs. Eleanor Mitchell, 46, also of Enola, a passenger in the Portney car, suffered lacerations of the head and left hand and possible internal injuries.

3 Charged With Impeding Firemen

Charges of failing to yield the right of way to fire apparatus were filed today by Charles W. Culp, Jr., chief of fire police, against three motorists alleged to have delayed the fire trucks en route to the home of Robert Shirley, near Seven Stars, on the night of March 11.

License numbers were taken of the three cars alleged to have impeded the firemen's progress, and 10-day notices will be sent to those listed as the owners, by Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore.

Those charged are: Daniel R. Price, Wilkes-Barre; H. W. and Frances Weda, 339 Carlisle street, and Charles Douglas, 129 Water street.

Girl Scouts Observe 37th Anniversary Of Founding

Today marks the 37th anniversary of the founding of the Girl Scout movement in the United States, and Girl Scout of Adams county, were participating in observance of their organization's birthday.

When the Girl Scout organization was launched in 1912 by Juliette Gordon Low, its founder planned a program that would help girls to become not only better homemakers, but better citizens of their nation and the world.

Mrs. Low could not foresee the course of history, wars, depressions, precarious prosperity and dubious peace, in which her organization would evolve and expand, but she knew that the philosophy of any group dealing with human beings is open to endless development and Girl Scout leaders believed that is perhaps the secret of the Girl Scouts' success story.

Has 1,500,000 Members

Girl Scout membership has increased from 12 to nearly 1,500,000 in the comparatively short period of 37 years. In almost every American community there are waiting lists, totaling thousands of additional girls from seven to 17, who want to become members. Girl-Scouting recognizes and fulfills the basic needs of young people for companionship and fun, a sense of belonging and a feeling of being useful to society.

The Girl Scout program, adaptable to changing conditions and the vicissitudes of today's world, has undergone constant transition, but its fundamental aim—the development of mature individuals and intelligently participating citizens — remains unchanged.

PHI SIGS WIN "SKIT" TROPHY FRIDAY NIGHT

The administration of Gettysburg college, the Gettysburg coed, faculty members, the college book store and others received some good-natured "ribbing" from the undergraduates in fraternity skits staged Friday evening as one of the highlights of the 14th annual interfraternity week-end. The skits followed the speaking program of the get-together in the Eddie Plank gymnasium.

Phi Sigma Kappa with its presentation of Stereopticon slides on "Campus Scenes" accompanied by choral singing, was awarded first place with Alpha Tau Omega second with its "Retrospection of a College student."

Other skits presented were: "The Tiger," by Phi Kappa Psi; "Body and Soul," an Afghan opera, by Phi Gamma Delta; a minstrel show by Sigma Chi; "Infirmary Scene," Phi Delta Theta; "Lockerroom Scene," Sigma Alpha Epsilon; "Frankie Lancaster and his band," Lambda Chi Alpha; "Dangerous Dan McGrew," Tau Kappa Epsilon, and an "Army Scene," Kappa Delta Rho. There was group singing by the fraternities between each skit.

The following cups were awarded: first in scholarship, Phi Sigma Kappa; second, Phi Delta Theta; Christmas decorations, Phi Gamma Delta, and intramural football, Phi Delta Theta.

Photographers To Join District Unit

Decision to participate in the activities of a council of district camera clubs was voted Friday evening at the March meeting of the Gettysburg Photographic society at the home of Dr. Frederick Tilberg, East Lincoln avenue. Ten members and a guest attended.

Ten prints were hung in the monthly photo exhibit and an entry by Philip Tyson was voted first place. Joseph D. Kendeheart and Edward Stine tied for second place.

Honorary membership in the society was voted unanimously to Dr. Dunning Idle, Jr., who will leave soon for Java where he will serve as a cultural attaché with the State department.

The club's next meeting will be held April 8 at the college science hall where prints for the fourth annual Adams County Photographic exhibit will be mounted and judged.

MORE SIGNS OF SPRING APPEAR AT MART TODAY

A touch of spring was added to the Farmers market this morning with the first forsythia making its appearance. Large sprays sold for 35 cents each, smaller for 15 and 20 cents. Pussywillows, which have been on the market for the past two weeks, were 25 cents for a large spray.

Watercress was on the market today, at 15 cents a quart box, or two for 25 cents. Other market offerings remained the same, with little or no change in prices, except on eggs, which were up two cents a dozen at some stalls. Large whites sold for 50 and 52 cents a dozen, mediums 45 cents a dozen.

Pork prices were unchanged, as follows: Loin, 90 cents a pound; roast ham, 70 cents a pound; scrap. (Please Turn To Page 7)

FIRE DESTROYS YOUNG COUPLE'S HOME THURSDAY

A young Hanover couple, married only four months, lost their home and belongings in a fire of undetermined origin which occurred Thursday afternoon.

The victims were Herbert P. Rutters, who served as an officer and pilot with the AAF in the South Pacific during World War II, and his bride, the former Montyette Good-fellow.

One wall was all that remained standing today of their one and one-half story stone dwelling along the Hampton-New Chester road, one and one-third miles west of Hampton. The loss, covered by insurance, was estimated by Rutters at upwards of $10,000.

AUXILIARY ADDS SIX MEMBERS

Six new members were admitted to the monthly meeting of the Adams County Fish and Game association auxiliary Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Morris Gittlin, Carlisle street.

Included were Mrs. Ray Biesecker and Mrs. Miles Biesecker, Gettysburg R. 3; Mrs. Donald Hershey and Mrs. Harry M. Small, Cashtown; Mrs. John Myers, Seven Stars, and Mrs. Richard Golden, Gettysburg R. 5.

It was voted to change the time for the regular meetings from the first Friday to the second Friday of each month.

Mrs. Holbert Riley, president, presided at the meeting which was attended by 17 members and three guests. She thanked the auxiliary for the assistance rendered at the fair held at Cashtown last week.

During the social hour Mrs. Howard Hartzell gave a reading on the birthday of St. Patrick.

The next meeting will be held Friday, April 8, at the home of Mrs. Earl Deardorff, 153 Carlisle street, with Mrs. Hartzell as co-hostess.

President Hanson Marks Birthday

Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg college, today observed his birthday anniversary. He is also completing his 26th year as head of the local institution.

The college prexy received scores of telegrams and well wishes from his many friends through the country. His office staff presented him with a large bouquet of cut flowers.

FRATS ARE TOLD NEW CHALLENGE IS MAIN GOAL

Approximately 1,000 alumni, undergraduates, students from nearby colleges and other guests attended the get-together of the 14th annual interfraternity week-end in Eddie Plank gymnasium Friday evening.

Elles Derby, national president of Lambda Chi Alpha national social fraternity, and manager of management education in the home office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, New York city, spoke on the "Challenge in the Job of Fraternity Membership."

Speaking of Phi Beta Kappa, national honor fraternity which was founded in 1776 at William and Mary and was the first fraternity, Mr. Derby said that it was founded for social aspects and serious discussion of not only the literary things of the day but also the events of the times.

5-Point Challenge

"The Challenge of the future is based on five points," he said. "First, scholarship; second, public relations, the job of so living your chapter lives that you bring credit to your chapter and college; third, self-government; fourth, helping humanity, and fifth, leadership."

Mr. Derby concluded his talk by telling the group, "we are at the crossroads to glorious success or oblivion."

In his welcoming address, Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg college, said, "No institution that knows the values of fraternities would ever choose to have fraternities removed from the campus."

Dr. C. Lisle Beers, president of the Gettysburg college alumni interfraternity conference, who was master of ceremonies, presented Dr. Hanson with a box of cigars as a birthday gift from the interfraternity conference at the conclusion of his talk.

MAN FACES BAD CHECK CHARGE

Borough police today filed a charge of issuing worthless checks against Dr. Joseph T. Hunter, veterinarian, 22 Carlisle street, Hanover, and said that Hunter, now in the Warner hospital recovering from alleged self-inflicted gunshot wounds, would be arrested on the charge when he is discharged from the hospital. Chief of Police Robert C. Harpster said his hospital discharge was expected today or Monday.

Hunter is charged with defrauding the Albert J. Lentz Post No. 202, American Legion, of approximately $70 on 11 worthless checks he gave to the post between January 5 and February 14. The charge was filed before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder.

Hunter was brought to the hospital the night of February 19 by state police of the Gettysburg substation, with a gunshot wound in his left side, self-inflicted, police said, at his farm home on the Bonneauville road, with a 12-gauge shotgun. He is also awaiting court action on a drunken driving charge, filed against him February 13 by state police.

Struck By Truck; Break Right Leg

Elizabeth Ann Pennington, 9-year-old daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Pennington, 412 Carlisle street, suffered a fractured right leg at 3:45 o'clock Friday afternoon when the wheel of a truck passed over her knee on Baltimore street, according to a borough police report. The child was taken to the Warner hospital.

Police said that a truck driven by Carl M. Kidwell, Gettysburg R. 4, had stopped in the alley next to the McClean building, Baltimore street, to pick up garbage. When Kidwell started to move again, he sounded his horn, police said. According to a witness, the Pennington child was running, and in attempting to stop, slid in front of the truck.

HOME RULE IN SCOTLAND NOW FLARING ANEW

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Ever since the union of Scotland and England in 1707 the Scots periodically have demanded home rule for their kingdom. (Yes, Scotland still is officially a "kingdom"). To the uninitiated that would seem mighty tough on Mother England—what with the comparatively recent loss of Elie and Pakistan and Indian and Burma. And in truth it would be tough—if the Kilties were in dead earnest. But since the blood of the Highlands runs in my own veins I speak with some understanding when I voice doubts about the seriousness of the intent.

I suspect that Scotland once more is roughing up the Sassanachs (Englishmen to you), largely to keep 'em in their place. Of course, if the Scots really wanted independence, they could take it. They're a hardy folk. The Germans in World War I had good reason to name the kilted Highland troops "the Ladies from Hell." The Kaiser's men were terrified when the Scots charged over the top to the skirts of the bagpipe.

Don't Want Home Rule

Sure the Scots could walk out of union with England—if they wanted to. But they don't want to, and for a jolly good reason in the parlance of Scotland, and that's pounds, shillings and pence.

You see, while southern Scotland has great industries, the resources of the country as a whole are not all that a Scot could wish. Of course, there is the world's biggest shipyard on the Clyde; there are the big Scottish whisky distilleries and the Loch Ness monster, though one doesn't couple these two things for any special reason.

Loch Ness sea serpent ("Nessie" the natives call it) is one of the great drawing cards in Scotland. It was first seen in 1933 and has appeared numerous times since.

But to get back to our muttoms, Scotland is far from wealthy. It costs a lot to maintain a government for a country like that. And so, unity with richer Britain is economically much more sound. At least so it seems to a Scotsman.

Queen Is Scot

The latest home-rule fury is this: The "Scottish Plebiscite Society" has taken a sample of opinion in one district. Eight-six per cent of the registered electors voted with this result: In favor of a Parliament independent of England—539; in favor of a Scottish Parliament to handle purely home affairs—1,595; not in favor of any Scottish Parliament—122.

On the basis of this vote the advocates of a Scottish Parliament for home affairs may try to put that idea across. However, there seems small likelihood that any great number of Scots will demand separation entirely from England. It doesn't make sense in pounds, shillings and pence.

So Scotland will continue to send her 74 members to the imperial Parliament in London. And the British, recognizing the shrewdness of the Scots, will continue to employ Highland brains in economic matters.

On the whole the English-Scottish partnership seems very profitable for both parties.

And, of course, the Queen of England is a Scot.

Men's Chorus Will Sing At AME Zion

The Canaanites, a men's chorus under the direction of John White, Jr., will present a concert at the regular 7:30 o'clock evening services Sunday at St. Paul's AME Zion church, South Washington street.

Jr. will present concerts at both the afternoon and evening services Sunday at St. Paul's AME Zion church, South Washington street.

Made up of members of several churches in Harrisburg the group is considered one of the best singing aggregations in central Pennsylvania. The Rev. J. O. Fountain, pastor of St. Paul's, said the group has sung in some of the largest churches in Harrisburg, Philadelphia and other large cities. Its director, Mr. White, is well known as a singer and also directs the Hallelujah Chorus, a group of mixed singers.

The program is being presented for the benefit of the Spring Rally of the local church and the public is invited to attend.

The Hallelujah Chorus will also sing at the services Sunday evening. Isaiah White will accompany the groups at the piano.

AUDITORIUM FILLED

Every seat in the Gettysburg high school auditorium was filled and scores of persons stood Friday evening throughout the final performance of the three-act mystery play "The Bat." The production was the annual senior play. The high school orchestra entertained between acts.

Robert L. Hoffman

Robert L. Hoffman, 41, died Friday at 9:30 a. m. at the home of Mrs. Joseph Eshelman, Chestnut Level, Lancaster county. Death was caused by coronary occlusion.

A son of the late George L. and Elizabeth Masemore Hoffman, he was born in York county. He was a carpenter, and lived near Red Lion for many years.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Aaron B. Musser, Manchester, and Mrs. George Hale, Gardner, and a number of nieces and nephews.

Treasurer's Report

The report of D. C. Stallsmith, treasurer, revealed total income of $309,710.28. Of that amount $119,855.74 was a balance from 1947. The county ended the year with a $17,016.18 balance of which $10,000 was in U. S. bonds. County orders totaled $270,020.18.

Stallsmith's report for the county institution district showed income of $106,335.98 including a $13,853.47 balance from 1947. At the beginning of this year the institution district had a balance of $24,571.36.

The county auditors are John S. Wolfe, Armor M. Weikert and George M. Conover.

Whether Mr. Truman will attempt to build up fire under opponents of the Civil Rights bill in a swing across the country by train before congress quies still was a matter for speculation.

He threatened to stump the country to save his program when he spoke to the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner in Washington, Feb. 24.

For the time being, no one could say whether he might carry out that threat until congress has a chance to act on rent control extension, housing and other proposals.

President Truman's initial reaction to the major congressional rebuff to his Civil Rights program was one of complete silence today.

The chief executive was advised immediately of the Senate 46 to 41 defeat last night of Senate majority leader Lucas motion to halt the Senate filibuster.

Close associates said the action apparently doomed chances of passage of the anti-lynching, anti-poll tax, anti-segregation and other proposals for which he campaigned successfully in 1948.

They said the president was leaving the next step up to his administration lieutenants on Capitol Hill. Civil Rights proposals are a fundamental part of the Truman fair deal legislative program.

COUNTY AUDIT COMPLETED IN RECORD PERIOD

The Adams county auditors completed their work today—setting a new record for speed in completion of the audit despite the fact that this year's was the largest in history.

John S. Wolfe, president of the auditors, reported the audit completed at the end of 61 days of work. Last year the auditors took 63 days to finish their study of the county's accounts, which also includes the institution district, county library and the like.

The report shows that, because of the construction of the new jail, Adams county's largest expenditures during 1948 were for the care and keeping of its prisoners. Total outlay for the jail was $132,214.56 of which $125,871.96 went for the jail. Other items listed under the jail included $2,054.25 for groceries and meat and $1,347.36 for clothes and shoes.

Heavy Jail Expense

The county spent $12,877.53 to maintain prisoners in various penal institutions including, Eastern Penitentiary, $3,474.58; Western Penitentiary, $1,582.18; Huntington Reformatory, $4,540.74; Camp Hill, $2,514.13 and home for women, $765.90. There was an outlay of $5,911.20 for maintenance of prisoners in the Dauphin county jail. During the construction of the new jail all Adams county prisoners were maintained at the Harrisburg prison.

During the year the county reduced its total debt by $16,000 bringing the amount down to $114,000.

Child welfare expenditures totaled $203,318.70 of which $13,736.54 went towards boarding children in various homes in the county.

Excellent production was reported by the county home farm, with sales of products from the farm bringing in $3,517.05 to the treasury. During the year the county home farm produced, among other things, 6,000 bushels of corn, 7,510 pounds of pork, 4,451 pounds of beef, 938 bushels of barley, 880 pounds of soap, two barrels of sauerkraut. Chickens weighing 354 pounds were killed for use of the county home inmates.

Salaries paid to county home employees totaled $13,599.19.

The Upper Adams County Lions club will meet jointly with the Fairfield club Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the Arendtsville school auditorium. Members are requested to bring their "hearts" for final settlement in the drive for the Heart fund. Members are also requested to wear green ties in observance of St. Patrick's Day. The program, which will include moving pictures of the 1948 World Series and football games, is in charge of the publicity committee Paul F. O-born, Donald E. Baer and Paul W. Wagner.

The dinner-meeting of the Grace Yeiser Missionary society of Trinity Lutheran church, Arendtsville, will be held next Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock at the parsonage instead of one week later as previously planned. Mrs. Whitehead will review the Mission study book, "Twilight or Dawn."

The Pathfinder class of Bethlehem Lutheran Sunday school, Bendersville, met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Wright, Jr., with Mrs. Ward Taylor as associate hostess. The club will meet next month with Mrs. Harry Lerew with Mrs. Howard Hutton as the associate hostess.

The meeting of the Biglerville Senior Girl Scout troop which was to have been held Monday evening has been indefinitely postponed.

Paul F. Osborn, Biglerville, transacted business in Lancaster on Friday.

All interested women of the Bendersville community are requested to meet in the community hall Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock to help clean the kitchen.

Mrs. George W. Smith and Mrs. Orville Faust, Biglerville, attended the builders' show in Harrisburg Thursday.

In attendance at the show on Wednesday were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bushman, Mrs. Melvin Warren and Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds Criswell, all of Arendtsville.

Charles Shenk, a student at the Mennonite Bible college, Grantham, has been ill for a week at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Coffman Shenk, Biglerville R. D. He has as his guest this week-end Glenn Good, Aldersyde, Alberta, Canada, a student at the Eastern Mennonite college, Harrisonburg, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Albright and children, Suzanne, James and McCreiden, Gardner R. D., attended the builders' show in Harrisburg today.

The annual bingo party of the Arendtsville Parent-Teachers' Association, scheduled for Friday evening, March 18, in the school auditorium, will be a community affair with patrons of the Arendtsville grade schools invited to bring along their friends and neighbors to the fund raising game.

Tickets at fifty cents entitle the holders to an evening of bingo, a chance on a door prize and half an hour of sound motion pictures during intermission. Sandwiches, cakes and candy donated by the parents will be on sale during the evening.

All of the proceeds are used directly for the benefit of the school children attending the Arendtsville unit.

ATLANTIC PACT WILL BE SIGNED EARLY IN APRIL

Washington, March 12 (AP)—The North Atlantic Security Treaty, finally completed after months of negotiation, will be signed here the first week in April.

Denmark and Italy are expected to line up formally with the western defense bloc before then, thus increasing the number of original signers to 10. Portugal and Iceland may come in also.

Completion of the treaty draft was announced last night by the negotiating team which has done all the work on it. The eight nations represented are the United States, Canada, Britain, Norway, France, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

Baron Silvercrans, the Belgian ambassador, told reporters as he left a conference in Secretary of State Acheson's office: "It's all fine, agreed and everything."

Publish Friday

The state department then issued a formal statement saying that several minor points had been cleared up during the session, that the text will be made public Friday, and that "the treaty will be signed the first week in April in Washington."

Meanwhile, the European and Canadian ambassadors will meet with Acheson next week to work out details for the signing ceremony and register the final approval of their governments for the arrangements agreed upon yesterday.

Following the signing, the treaty will have to be ratified by all the governments involved. Two-thirds approval in the Senate will be required before the United States can ratify.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee gave its informal okay earlier this week and officials are confident that the full Senate will follow suit without major opposition.

The treaty will bind the United States and the countries of Western Europe in a defensive alliance for the first time in history.

MEMBERSHIP MEETS

About 200 persons attended the Eastern States membership meeting held at Barlow fire hall Thursday evening. Donald Rexrode, fieldman, and a representative from Springfield, Mass., were the speakers. A. B. Martin was elected to attend the annual meeting in Springfield, Mass., next March. John Lott was named as alternate.

HOUSE SOLD OUT FOR BHS COMEDY

The "Standing Room Only" sign will go up in the lobby of the Biglerville auditorium on Friday night, March 25, when the high school songsters under the direction of Prof. Charles L. Yost present the musical comedy "The Gypsy Rover." It was stated today by Lawrence Gulden, faculty manager of ticket sales.

The light-hearted and colorful production will have its opening night Thursday, March 24, in Arendtsville where, according to Gulden, there are still good seats available; but Friday night's house in Biglerville is already a sellout.

"The Gypsy Rover" has been a perennial favorite with high school, college and professional stock producing companies for over 20 years and in the opinion of director Yost it is one of

Bullet Spring Sports Program Includes 19 Baseball Contests

Prof. Clayton E. Bilheimer, director of athletics at Gettysburg college, today released the spring sports schedules for baseball, tennis, track and golf.

A 19-game schedule for the Bullet nine highlights the card while 14 matches have been arranged for the Battlefield linksmen.

Playing host to the Middle Atlantic track and field championships May 13 and 14 is the outstanding feature of the track schedule. Five triangular meets and the Penn Relays are also included.

The Bullet netmen will have 15 matches facing them, one of the largest tennis schedules for years.

Although only three games have been scheduled, the Bullets plan to organize a freshman baseball team for the first time in history. Henry T. Bream, head coach of football and basketball, will coach the yearlings while Ira Plank will handle the varsity reins.

The schedules:

Kentucky, St. Louis Are Likely Finalists

New York, March 12 (AP)—Unless somebody stubs a toe along the way, the National Invitation Basketball Tournament which opens at Madison Square Garden today will wind up with Kentucky and St. Louis battling for the championship next Saturday night.

That's the way tournament officials planned it when they seeded Kentucky first and St. Louis second and placed them in opposite brackets. And that's the way a great many folks would like to have it.

Front man in this category is the veteran Kentucky coach, Adolph Rupp. The lone wildcard defeat in 30 starts was administered by St. Louis, an uphill 42-40 decision in the Sugar Bowl final last December.

Nothing would please Rupp and his players as much as another crack at St. Louis and a chance to prove that the reversal at New Orleans was a mistake which won't happen again.

Clubs Must Answer Court Suits Soon

New York, March 12 (AP)—The stage was set today for the next act of organized baseball in Federal court.

Most of the major league teams have received summons in the $2,500,000 damage suit filed by Max Lanier and Fred Martin, two former St. Louis Cardinal pitchers who jumped to Mexico in 1946.

A New York court ordered the 16 clubs to show cause why Lanier and Martin should not be reinstated immediately. They were banned for five years.

The clubs must answer in court here next Tuesday.

$40,000 FIRE

Philadelphia, March 12 (AP)—Fire that started in an elevator shaft wrecked a three-story furniture plant in downtown Philadelphia causing damage estimated at $40,000. Samuel Rabinowitz, an official of the Interstate Parlor Furniture company, made the estimate. He said he was unable to say how much furniture was lost in last night's blaze.

CALVERT HIGH TRIPS DELONE

Delone Catholic high dropped a 55-47 decision to Calvert Hall, cage champions of the Baltimore Catholic schools, in a game played Friday evening on the McSherrystown floor.

The victory was the 24th in 25 starts for Calvert. Coach Bell's Squires led only one time, 4-2, in the early minutes and after a 7-7 deadlock a few minutes later, trailed throughout.

Next Friday evening on the Gettysburg college floor the Delone quintet will clash with the winner between Allentown Catholic and the Scranton Diocese champion for the eastern state Catholic championship. The winner will meet the western titlist for the state title in a game in the Pittsburgh arena.

The Delone reserves won the preliminary game 32-21.

ABC Fails To Lift Ban Against Negroes

Atlantic City, N. J., March 12 (AP)—Negroes will continue to remain outside the American Bowling Congress.

For the third straight year ABC delegates yesterday turned thumbs down on an amendment to delete the words "individuals of the white male sex" from their constitution.

Officials of the Congress would not comment on the rejection. They had returned their full attention today to their tournament which entered its second month today.

The Rev. Charles Carow of the Catholic Youth organization of Brooklyn, N. Y., who sponsored the amendment, took himself out of the picture. He predicted the ABC would be bombarded by anti-discrimination groups.

Sport Shorts

State College, March 12 (AP)—A return engagement between two of the best young heavyweights in college boxing, Marty Crandell of Syracuse and Chuck Drazenovich of Penn State, was the big event on the card today for the final day of the 26th intercollegiate boxing association championships.

The second meeting between this pair, who staged a real tight tussle a few weeks ago in a duel engagement, was more interesting to the fans than a team contest which promised to be equally close.

Meridian, Miss., March 12 (AP)—Eric McNair of Meridian, 39-year-old former major league baseball player, died last night at Rush memorial hospital here after a heart attack.

Gainesville, Fla., March 12 (AP)—Amateur Doug Ford and six professional par-breakers led the way into today's second round of the $2,500 Gainesville golf open. Ford fired 35-32—67 over the 6,016-yard Gainesville country club course yesterday. Angelo Petraglia, FFI, Monmouth, N. J., pro, was one stroke back with 34-34—68.

Nothing would please Rupp and his players as much as another crack at St. Louis and a chance to prove that the reversal at New Orleans was a mistake which won't happen again.

Snead And Mangrum Lose Out At Miami

Miami, Fla., March 12 (AP)—The $10,000 Miami International four-ball golf tournament entered its third round today but the glitter was gone.

Slammin' Sammy Snead and his partner, Lloyd Mangrum, early favorites who drew practically all the gallery of 2,000 for the first two days, went out of the 144-hole event at the halfway point yesterday.

Snead, of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Mangrum, Niles, Ill., stylist, lost to Skip Alexander, Southern Pines, N. C., and Pete Cooper, Ponte Verde, Fla., 2 and 1, to the dismay of the crowd that followed every hole they played.

Defending Champions Jim Ferrier of San Francisco and Cary Middecoff of Memphis, Tenn., scored a 2 and 1 victory over Tony Penna, Cincinnati, and Clayton Reafner, Cincinnati, and Clayton Heafner, 27 holes. Ferrier and Middlecoff saw their margin wiped out when Penna chipped in on the 29th and Heafner eagled the 30th. Ferrier pulled the game out of the fire on the 33rd and 34th.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

State College, Pa., Mar. 12 (AP)—Things you hear here . . . Bo McMillin, who left Indiana U. for a $30,000 job with the Detroit Lions, may be looking over the college field again after only one season with the pros . . . Bo is said to be one of the 55 applicants for the Syracuse university job . . . So is his assistant, Lou Zarza . . . Dick Harlow, a former president of the Intercollegiate Boxing association, declined an invitation to be a guest at the current tournament here because of his health . . . Instead he went to the Duke university hospital and reports are that the setback may keep him from his "advisory" coaching at Western Maryland and from tutoring the eastern All-Star team next fall . . .

SCRAMBLED EGGS
The Phillies "omelets," who staged daily infield drills at Clearwater, Fla., line up with President Bob Carpenter at shortstop; Bob's cousin, John Carpenter, at first; "Pop" Ashburn, Richie's dad, at second; publicist Babe Alexander at third and Frank Yetter, veteran baseball writer, catching . . . Observers say they've set baseball clear back to Abner Doubleday's time.

IN ONE YEAR
The White Sox have dropped Luke Appling's nickname of the "tired man" in favor of "the talking man." Luke is gabby as all getout this spring . . . Looks like Penn State will get Avatus Stone, sought-after Washington schoolboy basketball, although Red Auerbach, the Washington caps' coach, tried to detour him to Columbia . . . Joe Louis and Harry Mendel are in Miami trying to line up a Willie Pep-Sandy Saddler fight. Harry didn't think it funny when his New York friends asked to be remembered to the boys at Gulfstream . . .

FOOT FAULT
Horace Ashenfelter, Penn State distance runner star, missed most of the indoor season because of a broken bone in his right foot . . . And he just recently remembered how it happened . . . Horace, a Phys Ed student, attended a football coaching class last November . . . During an idle moment, he picked up a loose football and kicked it . . . He felt a twinge of pain then, but didn't think anything of it, even when he learned the bone was broken . . . That's what happens when a two-miler tries to kick a football as far as he could run with it.

50 PENN STATE GRIDDERS OUT
State College, Pa., March 12 (AP)—A squad of 50 Penn State gridiron hopefuls start spring training sessions here on Monday.

Coach Bob Higgins, preparing for his twentieth season with the Nittany Lion, will put the men through a concentrated training session and then put them against Duquesne and Bucknell in informal scrimmages.

Higgins said he hoped within the four-week practice period to "get pretty well set on my starting team, and also get a line in my reserves." Reserve strength looms as his chief source of worry.

Major losses from his 1948 team which won seven, lost one and tied one are guard John Simon, tackle John Finley, end Sam Tamburo, and backs Elwood Petchel, Wally Triplett, Larry Cooney, Joe Collins, and Larry Joe.

However, Higgins still figures on sending a "representative" team against Villanova college in the September 24 opener. Equally tough games follow with Army, Boston college, Nebraska, Syracuse, Michigan State, West Virginia, Temple and Pitt.

Higgins' replacement problem is less serious in the line than in the backfield.

King George Is Operated Upon For Ailing Leg
London, March 12 (AP) — King George VI was operated upon at Buckingham palace today in an attempt to aid the blood circulation in his ailing right leg.

The nine doctors who attended the 53-year-old monarch said his condition "is entirely satisfactory" and there is no question of further surgery.

The hope the operation—called lumbar sympathectomy—will permit the blood to flow more freely to the right foot. It was performed, in was explained, lest gangrene develop and make amputation necessary.

Five nurses assisted the king. King George threw off the effects of the anesthetic a half-hour after the operation. His physicians said he would need to remain in bed for about a week, after which there would be a period of inactivity for convalescence.

Three nurses will remain in constant attendance on the King while he is recovering.

Prof. J. R. Learmouth, an Edinburgh surgeon, performed the operation, cutting a small nerve center near the spine that controls the blood flow to the right leg. He was assisted by Prof. James Paterson Ross, surgeon of the University of London.

After the operation, which is considered rather rare but not dangerous, Learmouth personally informed Queen Elizabeth that her husband's condition was satisfactory.

Surgery In Palace
Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip, who had remained overnight in the palace to be near the ailing King, left at noon.

A room of Buckingham palace had been converted into a surgery for the operation. It was the same room in which King George's first grandson, Prince Charles, was born last fall.

The King has suffered from faulty blood circulation in both legs since November. The ailment is known as Thrombo Angitis Obliterans. Treatment has improved the blood flow in the left leg.

Training Camp Briefs

Clearwater, Fla., March 12 (AP) — Russ Meyer, right-handed pitcher obtained from the Chicago Cubs, opens the Grapefruit League today for the National League's Philadelphia Phillies.

The Phils play the Detroit Tigers in their first spring training game outside of inter-squad competition. Eddie Miller, a shortstop converted into a second baseman, has been the Phils' big gun—offensively and defensively. Yesterday he had two hits in an inter-squad game and figured in three double plays.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 12 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics open the Grapefruit League schedule today against the Washington Senators.

Joe Coleman, Lou Brissie and Charley Harris will pitch three innings each against the Nats.

Dick Fowler, last year's 15-game winner, opposes Washington tomorrow while Alex Kellner will hurl Monday and Phil Marchildon Tuesday.

San Bernardino, Cal., March 12 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates are all set for today's first game of their 35-game exhibition schedule. They entertain the Chicago Cubs in Perris Hill Park.

Manager Billy Meyer said he will use three righthanders — Murry Dickson, Elmer Singleton and Hal Gragg.

East Berlin

East Berlin.—A group of relatives from Baltimore assembled Sunday at the home of Mrs. Amanda Leih Lau, widow of Rev. Jere B. Lau, to assist in the celebration of Mrs. Lau's eightieth birthday. Mrs. Lau enjoys good health and can attend to her entire list of household duties as well as many outdoor tasks about the modern home that was built when the Laus returned to town.

Miss June E. Roder, a teacher at the local high school who spends the school year with Mrs. Lau, assisted in entertaining the guests who included Mrs. Lau's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Cordt Goldstein, with their son and daughter, Charles Goldstein, II, and Miss Jeanne Goldstein; also Mrs. Lau's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Laverne Lau, all of Baltimore. Another grandson, Joseph Laverne Lau, Jr., who had expected to be present, was unable to attend due to a sudden call to terminate his army furlough which he had been spending with his parents.

Word to his sister, Mrs. Mary Stambaugh, from Michael E. Trimmer, Parowan, Utah, a son of Peter Trimmer, late of East Berlin, reports that his condition is somewhat improved—after suffering severe frostbite of his head, face, arms, hands and feet during the blizzard that struck his section during January. Mr. Trimmer was overcome with the storm and intense cold while attempting to relieve the suffering of his ranch stock, much of which was later found frozen together in a huge pile. The victim is suffering with the effects of a frozen ear which remains under treatment and his arms are still partially paralyzed. Snowed-in for 19 days, Mr. Trimmer is now making plans to leave his ranch for a less severe climate.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul P. Lerew and daughter, Miss Betty J. Lerew, with Mr. and Mrs. J. Calvin Lerew and children, Jacqueline and John, were recent guests at the Philadelphia home of Mr. and Mrs. Obed E. Kreider, former residents of East Berlin.

A large electric clock with a luminous dial has been installed on the front of the George Glatfelter garage building on Abbottstown street.

Marlin Hoffman, four-year-old son of Ernest and Mildred Crone Hoffman, R. 1, has been under medical care for an infection of his hand.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Horn, R. 2, had as recent visitors their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence L. Horn, Jr. and daughter, Sheila, York.

The Franklin S. Kunkel property formerly occupied by Miss Margaret Eisenhart and Melvin Eisenhart who have moved to Berlin Heights, has been tenanted by Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Trimmer.

Ervin J. Baker, R. 2, Hamilton township Road Board official, has been confined to his home this week by illness.

A trial sermon will be heard (Sunday) at 10:15 a. m. at Trinity Lutheran church by the Rev. Glenn Hafer, Hallam, who is a possible successor to the Rev. Snyder Allenman who resigned the local Lutheran pastorate in June to become the pastor of a Frankford church.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

OUT OF FASHION

It is strange how we become accustomed to custom, or fashion, and somehow feel "out of date," if we don't! If we act, or even think, natural, we are looked upon as rather unusual, which, of course, we are. This would be a much better, and a happier world, if we would but act and think in a natural manner—the way we were born to do.

There is an old adage that "clothes make the man." They do nothing of the kind. Often they unmake him, encourage him to be a snob or a boaster. Style and neatness are often strangers. It is what a man, or woman, is inside those clothes that counts—and nothing else. Women are naturally sensitive about the fashion of their clothes, but an attractive and lovable personality will walk right through a battalion of "the latest styles."

The things that never go out of fashion are honesty, integrity, the simple things, such as courtesy, kindness, consideration for the feelings of others, and a Godly attitude toward life. Just suppose that "the very best people" do certain things, those things may be fundamentally wrong. What then? Well, don't do them, then you will be unique. It will be you, then, who will be outstanding.

I know of a certain writer who was invited to be the guest at a dinner to be given for him in New York City. He dressed strangely and was half blind, but when he arrived a little late to the dinner, the butler thought he must be some kind of a tramp and told him to come in the back way! Well, that finished him, and his sponsors could get nothing out of him, and he soon excused himself and left. That man was none other than Lafcadio Hearn,
one of the greatest stylists in literature, and a man whose writings will live so long as fine writing lives.

It is better to be alive and loved,
though you may violate a thousand fashions, than to be a slave to every fashion, and be soon forgotten—and not missed.

DETERMINATION

It is easy to stop. It is hard to go on When strength to continue the struggle seems gone.
But all progress was won by the stout hearts that stayed
To face hardship and blunder and loss undismayed.

Not by ways that are easy men
come to success.
Who ventures for triumph must courage possess.
There are failures to face, disappointments and jeers,
But the goal will be reached when the right man appears.

Grim failure's a teacher! From every retreat
Man learns as he ventures what not to repeat.
In that respect wiser than ever before,
Still seeking the true way, he sets out once more.

New Building Necessary: The
men's building at the Adams County home is no longer fit for the habitation of the men, and it cannot be successfully repaired.

That is the opinion of those who have been in charge of the home over the last few years, and it is the opinion of a Gettysburg Times reporter who has just completed a tour of inspection conducted by the farm's steward, Calvin R. Smith and Edgar K. Markley, attorney for the county commissioners.

There are no accurate records showing the exact date when the structure was erected, but best opinion holds for the 1818 date.

$500,000 Being Spent for Spring Building in County: Hundreds of thousands of dollars are being spent in Adams county this spring in one of the most extensive building programs by private individuals and concerns, religious organizations, and the state that this county has seen in many years. A survey of current and contemplated work places
the estimate at close to a half million dollars.

At present, the most important oil region in the Middle East lies in a great geologic trough extending down through Iran, Iraq, Saudi Arabia, and the sheikdoms of Kuwait, Bahrain, and Qatar.

In today's traffic it takes good brakes to get the breaks.

Fun to be Fooled

It's interesting how some of the normal things cars do on certain occasions alarm the unsuspecting.
You may have noticed, for instance, that on a cold morning the car will move ahead an inch or so with the clutch up and the engine running,
even though the gears are in neutral.
It's just that the gear lube, being congealed, causes the transmission gears to affect one another. Another oddity is the way you can fill the radiator to the brim day after day
and always find the water level low even if the system is tight and everything is working normally.
This just represents loss of coolant out the overflow due to expansion and explains why water should not be added until the engine is normally warm or the level kept within two inches of the overflow pipe when the engine is cold. Another thing that bothers many owners is the blackish water that comes out the exhaust pipe. They think of everything but condensation.

One for the Book

Unable to gain any relief for a bumpy ride one of my readers finally did some checking with factory engineers who came up with the interesting idea that perhaps one of the brake drums was drilled for the wheel bolts in such a way that the particular wheel was off center.
This not only caused a bumping action at low speeds and roughness at higher speeds, but also introduced a baffling-kind of shimmy. Merely replacing the wheel and drum solved
a problem that had been running up some fancy bills.

Note on Replacements

There's no denying that we are in a wave of replacements, and this explains why many a motorist with a new engine, new water pump, new fuel pump or new clutch is going around with the cares of the world on his shoulders. Probably he has made the common mistake of not observing some special precaution.

In the case of the clutch it may be that he failed to have grease removed before installing the new plate. This grease serves to prevent rust when the part is in stock. In the case of one water pump replacement the motor fan must also be replaced. This is because the replacement pump differs from the type originally on the car.

Mechanic Joe Speaking

"The caution department reminds us that our cars are more sensitive than most of us realize. Emphasizing this is the fact that even oily finger marks on brake lining may be sufficient to prevent good equalization, a precaution straight from one of the car factories.

"Something along similar lines concerns the need for absolute cleanliness when installing a cylinder head gasket. A particle of carbon in the wrong place may open a leak between cylinders and spoil an otherwise good job. Ball and roller bearings also need to be handled
gingerly."

From the Cheering Section

Some things about our cars run so well we ought to begin cheering instead of harping on trouble. So says one of my good readers who never ceases wondering why the fuel filter bowl doesn't come loose more often,
for it is held merely by a hand tightened nut. Which reminds me of my time-honored wonder as to why on earth motorists didn't have more serious trouble when the reserve tank of the hydraulic brakes was up under the hood. If the top came loose there would be no brakes. And incidentally, why is it that so few tops come loose on oil filters?

Keep These In Mind

All the brakes do on your car is stop the wheels, which is a mighty good reason for making sure that the tire treads which stop the car

vertible coupe, "Newport", limousine

and eight-passenger sedan; Town and Country convertible and "New-

Longer, Decrease

Chrysler designers have produced a car that has more room in all of the essential places and four inches greater wheelbase, yet is lower by approximately two inches, and also narrower and shorter than previous postwar models. The reduction of the overall width and length resulted from the public's desire to have a car that would fit into the average-size garage.

Wheelbase in the sixes has been increased from 121½ inches to 125½ inches, and in the eights from 127½ to 131½. It remains the same in the Crown Imperial limousine and seven-passenger sedan, namely 145½ inches. The limousine and eight-passenger sedan on the six-cylinder line retain their 139½ inch wheelbase. The added wheelbase in all the other models is a definite factor in improving riding qualities, as it accentuates the "cradling" of

MANY IMPROVEMENTS IN CHRYSLER'S "SILVER ANNIVERSARY" LINE

passengers between the axles.

Width of front seat cushion has been increased from 52 to 58 inches and of the rear cushion from 51 to 58 inches in the four-door sedans.
This gain of six inches in the front seat and seven inches in the rear seat permits three persons of above average size to ride in perfect comfort, both front and rear. Chrysler's
"chair-height" seats, an important factor in passenger comfort, have been raised slightly both front and rear, further helping their occupants to ride in a natural and relaxed position.

More Headroom

Headroom has been increased in the critical dimension parallel to the back of the rear seat, the place where this room really is needed.
Rear doors in the sedan models are hung from the center post, making it easier for passengers to enter and leave the rear compartment and contributing to safety.

Another contribution to safety is an increase in the area of the windshield from 687 square inches to 851½, a gain of 24 per cent. The part of the windshield covered by the wiper blades also is increased from 348 to 502 square inches, a gain of 44.2 per cent. The area of the rear window likewise has been made appreciably greater also.

Use of the "Bustle-back" treatment of the rear end, in conjunction with a completely new front-end styling achieves balance and symmetry in exterior appearance. The car seems to "hang together" better than ever before.

SAYS FILIBUSTER IS UP TO SENATE

Harrisburg, March 12 (AP)—Governor James H. Duff is leaving the threat of a Democratic filibuster in the state Senate up to the legislators.

"That is exclusively a problem for the General Assembly," the governor said when asked yesterday about the minority move to block the administration tax program. Democratic leaders want a public hearing on the controversial gasoline tax increase before proceeding with Duff's tax plan.

Meanwhile, Duff said he knows nothing about proceedings inside the Senate Finance committee room when the tax program was considered. "I have no curiosity to know," he added.

The governor said he still favors "a real fair employment practices bill" and that there is "complete accord" among varied groups interested in his low rental housing program.

The question of repealing the state's ban on the sale of colored oleomargarine will be taken up at a meeting in a week or so, Duff said. He did not disclose with whom the conference will be held.

Regarding a Senate-passed bill to boost the governor's salary, Duff said he wants it clearly understood that the increase from $18,000 to $25,000 a year will not affect him. He said it will be the next chief executive of Pennsylvania who will benefit if the bill becomes law. The same rule applies to other state officials whose pay will be raised by the measure.

York Springs

York Springs—Mr. and Mrs. Philip Aldinger announced the birth of a daughter on March 4.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lusk has been named Bonnie Lee. Mr. and Mrs. Lusk recently came to this area from Mechanicsburg.

Mrs. Charles Middleton, the former Miss Helen Guise, with her daughter, Suzanne, are spending several months here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jere Guise, and family, because of the assignment of the husband, Lt. Charles H. Middleton, to the School of Associate Advanced Engineering, Ft. Belvoir, Va.

The subject of the Lenten sermon preached Wednesday evening at the local Lutheran church by the Rev. Ralph W. Meckley, pastor, was "Peter and the Cross." This sermon was one of a series of Wednesday evening discourses to continue at the church throughout Lent on the general theme: "The World and the Cross." The next sermon scheduled is "The Priests and the Cross." Other subjects will be: "Simon and the Cross"; "The Thieves and the Cross"; "The Roman and the Cross"; and the final sermon on the Wednesday before Easter, "Christ and the Cross."

Denies Charges He Mistreated Animals

Baltimore, March 12 (AP)—A Hershey, Pa., animal trainer denied charges that he mistreated dogs and cats delivered to Johns Hopkins medical school last November. John S. Tuck, 31, testified in Criminal court yesterday that the animals would not have been accepted if they were in bad condition. Trial is in recess until Monday.

Tuck is accused of bringing the animals to Baltimore in a delivery truck that had an almost airtight canvas cover.

Norman Huster, local agent for the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals which preferred the charges, told the court that the cats and dogs were weakened and dazed. Some, he added, were unconscious.

Tuck said the medical school ordered the animals for experiments.

HELD FOR LOOTING

Reading, Pa., March 12 (AP)—Two GI's are in custody of Air Force Authorities today accused of looting warehouses of the Air National Guard's 148th Fighter Squadron at Reading Municipal airport. The men are Staff Sergeant Joseph Janovich, 33, of Lebanon, Pa., and Cpl. Frank Guzman, 20, of New York City.

Birmingham, Ala., has 452 churches.

ARENDTSVILLE

The Intermediate Troop No. 1 met at the Parish House March 7 at 7:30 p.m. with 11 members and one leader present. The meeting opened with the promise and laws. During the business meeting it was decided to sell tickets for a motion picture sponsored by the Good Samaritan Sunday School class. A play which will be given in the near future was rehearsed. The meeting closed by forming the Friendship Circle and singing Taps.

LITTLE TOWN

The meeting of Intermediate Troop No. 14 was called to order by the president, Barbara Motter. Twelve girls were present, each bringing their registration money. As an added feature for the evening, each girl brought a small gift for their former troop leader's baby, Miss Joan Coble, teacher of music in Littlestown high school, is still teaching dramatized ballad to the troop. Refreshments were served and the meeting adjourned.

Brownie Troop No. 16 met at 4 p.m., Monday, March 7, with an attendance of 34. The meeting was opened with the salute to the flag followed by the Brownie promise and singing of America. Through the courtesy of the National Safety Council, J. R. Reaver, safety engineer, presented films on "Your School Patrol" and "Play Safe," in observance of safety week. The meeting was closed with the friendship circle.

Intermediate Troop 26 held their meeting Wednesday March 2, at the town fire hall. During the meeting the troop handed in their registration money.

YORK SPRINGS

The meeting of Brownie Troop No. 20 was called to order by the President with the singing of America and the Brownie promise. New officers were elected as follows: president, Arla Lehman; secretary, Nancy Mae Davis. After the business meeting, singing games were practiced.

GETTYSBURG
The regular meeting of the Senior Girl Scouts, Troop 29, was held on Monday evening, at the home of Mrs. David Baker. The members of the troop worked on favors for the Girl Scout birthday tea, to be held at the United Brethren church, March 12. A business session was conducted by the president, Nancy Lighter, in which two delegates were elected to attend a conference at Harrisburg. A special meeting will be held on March 7 at the home of Mrs. David Baker.

Intermediate Troop No. 8 met at Christ Lutheran church, March 7. A play was practiced and also the flag ceremony.

Intermediate Troop No. 11 met at the high school. During the meeting, Miss Katherine Wagaman, public school nurse, gave instruction on bathing the baby, to those girls who are working on their child care badge. Last Monday, the girls who are working on their cooking badge met with Miss Helen Keefeauver, home economics teacher, who illustrated some cooking fundamentals for the girls.

GET STATE HELP

Harrisburg, March 12 (AP)—The State Sanitary Water Board announced that it has paid $6,648 more to local municipalities to help pay the cost of plans for sewage treatment works. Checks, representing up to half the cost of the plans went to South Williamsport, Lycoming county, $3,142; Midland, Beaver county, $3,750; and Lock Haven, Clinton county, $8,624.

CAR RUNS WILD

Reading, Pa., March 12 (AP)—A driverless car collided with a bus killing 21-year-old Chester A. Godziejewski. The youth, a hosiery worker, was standing on the front bumper of the automobile yesterday when it began to roll down a grade. The auto smashed into the side of a bus hurling Godziejewski to the sidewalk.

Riding With Russell

It doesn't seem like anything to worry about but a loose battery connection may burn the breaker points. The looseness increases voltage.

While a test of the high speed mixture of your car may show it to be too far on the rich side the chances are that it is normal enough for the hard service to which the engine will be put. Also a lean mixture burns with a hotter flame and may warp the valves.

Anything Can Happen

More and more I am coming to the conclusion that automobiles have a quintessence of making no sense at all. I'll give you a perfect instance.

For some time I had been annoyed by the creaking of the large wheel discs. No question but what the discs were to blame for this because other owners had the same problem and when I drove the car with the discs off there was no noise. Then I replaced the tires. Since then the discs have made no noise whatever.

There seems to be no logical explanation.

It's a Headache

I am indebted to a woman reader of the column for discovering something that may help a lot of others who find that as a passenger they may be annoyed by smell of burning oil until they have quite a headache. Sometimes it is the other way round, with the driver getting the headache and the front seat passengers coming to the end of the day's drive feeling no pain. How is it possible for only one of the two front seat occupants to be annoyed by the fumes from the breather pipe or oil filler pipe of the worn engine?

The answer lies in ventilation. Also it makes a difference which side of the car the oil filler pipe is located.

Time for Bearing Check

While it is quite possible for rear wheel bearings to go haywire any time throughout the life of your car it is a good rule to consider their replacement at such times as you find it necessary to relime the brakes, assuming that the wheel bearings are the self-lubricated type they should be replaced at this time. Also check the retainers to make sure they will neither permit loss of bearing lube or provide escape for differential lubricant into the rear brakes. Since you are having the wheels removed, you may as well look deeper into a situation that will need attention simultaneously.

Airing Their Car Troubles

Q. My car lets out a growling noise when starting out, and I also hear a clanking sound when I depress the clutch pedal and slow down to a halt. What's wrong? S.J.S.

A. Two things: a clutch condition and worn universal joints.

Q. It there any way I can hook up a hot shot device to help start the engine of my car. I have all kinds of trouble whenever the weather is cold. C.L.C.

A. There are various tricks you can try, but they're not necessary. If the cranking speed is fast enough, and the ignition parts are not wet from condensation, the engine will start. Make sure, of course, that there is gasoline in the carburetor float bowl and that the choke valve fully closes. You need a strong battery, tight starter connections and very light oil in the engine to get a good cranking speed.

Q. So long as I drive around town the cooling system is normal, but twice when trying to take a trip out of the city the radiator lost anti-freeze and the engine overheated. Can't find anything obviously wrong. K.E.T.

A. Check the lower radiator hose which may be collapsing when the car runs faster on the open road. The radiator core may be partly clogged or you may have a cylinder head gasket leak which allows combustion gases to blow into the coolant when the engine is operating to give extra power.

Q. For the past few months the engine of my car has developed the habit of quitting for a few seconds. It may be hard to re-start, although in most cases it will go right off again as if nothing had happened.

I've checked the gas line and the carburetor. All wiring seems to be normal. L.C.F.M.

A. The piston wire from the breaker arm of the distributor probably is broken inside its insulation. Thus current will break at certain positions. Just a matter of replacing this.

Q. My car develops a terrible vibration whenever reaching 55 miles an hour. I have re-bushed the front end, installed new tie-rod ends and have even installed four new shock absorbers. In addition, I have replaced engine mounts and have balanced the wheels and tires. H. N. Men.

A. I believe the trouble still is in the engine. Valve springs may be weak, timing may be off base or compression may vary too widely between the various cylinders.

Q. Would it be worth while to switch to 6.50-16 tires in place of the 6.00-16 size now on my car. I do not want to go to the super tires. Would there be a reduction in gas mileage, and would steering be troublesome? H.H.D.

A. This would be a good move. The car would ride better and you would not notice any increase in gas consumption. You might find parking a little harder but you could compensate by carrying the front tires at higher pressure when around the city.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him at 254 Fern street, West Hartford, 7, Connecticut, and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for a personal reply. There is no charge.

over the administration's plan to replace Taft-Hartley with a modified Wagner Act—minus the injunction clause.

Lewis claims the coal diggers are unsafe with Boyd in office.

But some lawmakers said the walkout might backfire on Lewis, if it was intended to scuttle Boyd.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), chairman of the interior committee which is considering the nomination, commented: "If it be true that Mr. Lewis has called a strike because of his opposition to Mr. Boyd's nomination, I feel his action will insure favorable action on the nomination."

tion by the committee."

John D. Battle, executive vice president of the National Coal association, termed the Lewis stoppage a "strike."

"Lewis' action is in keeping with his contempt not only for his contract but demonstrates his desire to dictate Federal appointments to high office," Battle said.

While some industry representatives and coal miners expressed surprise at Lewis' move, a lieutenant had thundered a hint to O'Mahoney's committee last Monday. The threat of a walk-out over safety issues was voiced by UMW Secretary-Treasurer John Owens.

MINERS READY TO KILL TIME FOR TWO WEEKS

Pittsburgh, March 12 (AP)—Most of the nation's coal miners are prepared today to do anything but mine coal for the next two weeks. Some said they'd "help around the house." Others thought they might work in the gardens "if the weather's agreeable." Still others said playing cards is a fascinating way to pass the time.

Dinner pails and water buckets would go into pantry shelves. Housewives would have to figure budgets. They still have hungry mouths to feed.

It was a familiar pattern to miners and their families—but life would go on somehow even if the men weren't in the pits.

Mixed Reaction

There was a mixture of reaction yesterday after John L. Lewis, chief of the United Mine Workers, ordered all mines east of the Mississippi to stay idle for two weeks beginning Monday. Most of the miners expressed surprise. So did most of industry. One coal operator, who asked that he not be identified, said the action "caught me flatfooted."

Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., a subsidiary of U. S. Steel, said "no curtailment of steel operations" is contemplated. (Ordinarily, coal mine stoppages are followed in about 10 days by curtailed steel operations.)

Though there's 70,000,000 tons of coal above ground—about a 45-day supply and the biggest springtime stockpile since 1942—the work stoppage will result in thousands of workers in industry being idled. First hit will be railroads.

The Chesapeake and Ohio railroad said it will lay off 10,000 workers next Wednesday. Notices were posted today. The hauling of coal is the chief business of the C. and O.

New Oxford

New Oxford — Miss Marie Carbaugh was hostess at her home on Wednesday evening to a meeting of the Study club of the Immaculate Conception Catholic church.

Mrs. N. Lingg, 84, who was confined to her home for some months after fracturing her hip in a fall during the summer, and who has been learning to walk, is now able to go about by auto. She has been able lately to attend church services and to visit relatives. Her general health is good.

The congregation of the Immaculate Conception Catholic church is contributing this month to the annual collection toward the support of the Indian and negro missions in the south and west. The subject of these missions was discussed Sunday by the Rev. Robert D. Hartnett, pastor of the church, who reminded his people that the needs of the American Indians and negroes and those who instruct them are very great because of the sparsely-settled and poverty-stricken regions where they reside and that these home missions are as deserving of attention as are those in foreign lands.

Joseph F. Kaiser, who had been confined to his home by illness, is able to be about. Mr. Kaiser was confined to his home for some time previously, some months ago, due to a heart ailment.

Women of the Immaculate Conception Catholic parish are preparing to conduct a sale of homemade baked goods for the public at their parochial hall on Saturday afternoon, March 19. Posters announcing the event have been posted in local business places.

Work is progressing rapidly on the erection of the fourth of a series of cottages on the land, east of town, adjoining Earl W. Rohrbach's "Bar-30 Ranch."

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Hoffnagle, near here, has been named Bonnie Yvonne. The baby was christened recently at the Immaculate Conception Catholic church by the Rev. Robert D. Hartnett, pastor. Godparents were Mr. Hoffnagle's stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Robinson.

Paul Noel, near town, has recovered from the recent illness that confined him to his home.

Linda Kay, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Harbaugh, who had been hospitalized with a pneumonia attack, has returned to her home and is recovering.

The Robert Lemmon family have moved to their newly purchased place near Dubbs' church in the Hanover area from the Carlisle pike on R. 1.

Mrs. Thomas E. Smith, who is recovering from a serious illness of several months, is able to be about and continues to improve although she is still under medical care.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gladfelter and son, Thomas, Jr., Columbia, formerly of here, recently visited local relatives. Mrs. Gladfelter is the former Miss Mary Catherine Moore.

Death's Bright Angel

Chapter 22
The ships were gone. Suspicion that Don Fernando had been up to something was certainly now. But what?

A door opened, and a giant of a man stood framed in the reflected square of light, then came striding across to them.

"Hello, Don," he boomed, welcome and relief in his voice. "I, Phil Ruden, am glad to see you back!"

"Why?" Rivers asked. "Something wrong?"

"Nothing, now that you're here," Ruden admitted, whipping off his hat at sight of the two girls. "But it struck us kinda funny, rushin' the loadin' like we been doing, then both ships pullin' out, with no shillin' o' pay for any of us, as agreed on. But when we had word that you'd be here tonight to settle, we knew it was all right, of course."

So that was it. A second time Don Fernando was using him to take chestnuts from the blaze. The loading, which had been supposed to start tomorrow, had been rushed during his absence. This was double-barreled, a swift change in whatever former plans he had had. Rivers' presence had made it necessary and feasible. To cheat everyone, and for their wrath to fall upon himself!

While angry men removed Rivers finally and completely from his path, Don Fernando figured to escape with the ships. These men were sure that there was only one Don Fernando Gonzales. Either he would pay them, or they would deal ungentily with him. Denial would only increase their anger.

A dozen men had joined Ruden now. But Don Fernando had overlooked one detail. Irene spoke bitingly.

"What a lovely scoundrel of a brother I have!"

Donna Dolores looked at her, shocked and questioning. Irene nodded her head at her.

"I don't mean what I seem to, Donna," she said. "But don't you see? This gentleman whom you love, and whom I admire, is not my brother, not Don Fernando Gonzales at all. He is the man who came to your rescue in St. Augustine. Because he looks like Fernando's twin, and, being no Spaniard, was being hunted by the authorities, Don Fernando persuaded him to go on an unnamed mission for him to New Orleans, rather than to be shot! Then he sent you on board the Lovely Maria, without telling Jean Rivers about it! For, though he is my brother, Don Fernando is a scoundrel!"

Here was the explanation which Rivers had dreaded. Donna Dolores looked startled, but there was no time for him to explain to her now. Those who surrounded them were puzzled also, but angry.

"What's this?" Ruden demanded. "You tryin' to make out that he ain't Don Fernando?"

"That's right," Irene agreed crisply. "Don Fernando is with the ships, and, it seems, safely away from here. Cheating all of us — using us as dupes!"

She turned, put an arm protectively about the shoulders of Donna Dolores.

"But don't worry," she said. "Jean Rivers is the man who loves you — as you love him. And he is a gentleman! The question is, what are we going to do?"

"That's a right good question, Lady." The big man shook his head, between admiration and bewilderment. "We was to be paid, tonight, for the cargo of them boats. You ain't got the money, eh — Mr. Rivers?"

Rivers shook his head.

"That's the size of it," he agreed.

"Well —" Ruden shook his head, between puzzlement and anger.

"Sounds like you'd been made a fool of, same as the rest of us. We'll look into that. But ain't there something we can do?"

"Maybe there is," Rivers suggested. He had been thinking fast. Don Fernando had planned to be safe. Maybe he was. But there was a chance that, in planning this master-stroke, he had over-reached.

"When did the ships leave?" he demanded.

"Why — they pulled out, long about the middle of the forenoon. We'd been slavin' to get loaded in a hurry —"

"Mid-forenoon, eh? And it takes about a day to sail back to the river."

"Yeah. It's a slow an' crooked course, back that far."

Rivers, having traversed the course on the Lovely Maria, was well aware of that. Probably they would only have reached the lake. Which would mean waiting there for the new day. It was not only an excellent hiding place, but to try and thread those tricky channels by night was to invite disaster.

Likewise, Don Fernando would want to time his river journey so as to reach New Orleans after dark the next day, to run past the shore batteries in the dark. If the warship attempted to stop them, the Maria and the Countess together could blow it out of the water.

Rivers outline his theory. The others listened and agreed that it made good sense.

"He won't be worried none about us," Ruden said dispiritedly. "With the crews he's got, an' cannon an' all, he knows good an' well we can't do nothin' to stop him."

"I hope he'll figure it that way,"

Rivers agreed. "If he does, and spends the night on the lake — we'll stop him!"

"How?" It was an exclamation of unbelief.

Chapter 23

"Get a fresh team for the wagon. We'll get there faster that way than by boat. I want lodgin' for the night for these ladies. And a dozen men to go with me."

"No trouble about either o' those. Were sure going alone."

"We're going with you," Irene interrupted. "We intend to be in at the finish, don't we, Donna?"

Rivers waited, his heart thudding painfully, for the answer. But Donna Dolores met his gaze straightforwardly.

"Of course," she agreed. "We're in this together."

The moon was late in raising, as the wagon lurched and groaned over a trail hardly deserving the name of road. Mosquitoes made the night miserable for the load of humanity crammed within the wagon. Ruden drove, making such speed as was possible.

"Just what you got in mind?" he asked finally.

"We'll salvage that twelve-pounder from the wrecked long-boat," Rivers explained. "If we have it set up by daylight, with the ships still in the lake—we'll have a talking-point."

"That accounts for the bar'l o' powder we're carryin'," Ruden conceded dubiously. "But a gun like that ain't enough to stop a ship. Like a rooster peckin' at the side of a house."

"Not alone, maybe," Rivers agreed. "But we'll see."

He volunteered no further explanation. It was a long chance, and it would hinge on luck. But it offered a fighting possibility. His spirits lifted at sight of the dark shadows of the ships on the lake. Don Fernando had taken the precaution to anchor near the middle, so that no boats could slip upon him undetected. Not that there was much to fear from his point of view. The ships were well manned with men who had served their apprenticeships on the high seas at open piracy.

Near the lake the road ended. The next mile was a weary struggle, through a near-morass. The ground was slimy with more than mud alive with more venomous creatures. Since sound would carry far, they were forced to struggle in silence.

It was exhausting work. Worse, it was time-consuming. But finally they reached the wrecked long-boat at the fringe of the lake. It had been stripped of all small arms, and only the twelve-pounder was there, too bulky to bother with. A quick inspection satisfied Rivers that it was still useable.

Now began the hardest part of the job. To move it, heavy and cumbersome as it was. It was a nightmare task, tugging and lifting and shoving. Twice it all but bogged in the muck, but once they reached the wagon it was easier. Rivers wondered if Don Fernando had chanced to notice the wrecked boat, if he too might have inquired concerning it. Destiny could hinge on such small details.

As the birds awoke to a full-throated salute to the dawn, they found a solid spot of ground and tugged the cannon into place. Here it was adequately concealed by trees and brush, yet with a clear line of vision out to the lake. To the narrow strip of channel which led toward the river.

He had hoped to find solid shot at the wreck, but there had been none. They had powder, and having foreseen the possibility, Rivers had brought from near the town, several round stones. One of these fitted fairly well.

"No telling what will happen when we fire it," he warned, "but we'll have to take a chance."

The others were skeptical. Even if it worked, they could see no profit in it. Day was coming fast, and on board both ships was sudden stir of activity. Don Fernando appeared on the quarterdeck of the Lovely Maria, turning to talk to an officer. Rivers stiffened at sight of the other man. It was Martinez!

Presently Martinez crossed to the Gay Countess. After the breathless humidity of the night, a breeze ruffled the sluggish waters of the lake, setting the fringing trees gently in motion. Sails began to fill, and with the Lovely Maria in the van, the two vessels got under way.

Besides Rivers, the others waited in sweating impatience. The ships were almost at the narrowing channel.

"Stand back," he said. "We'll give them a warning."

The cannon roared, the noise crashing on the morning like the vicious slap of a giant hand. The twelve-pounder tumbled back with the violence of the concussion, but nothing worse happened. The shot hurtled in close warning across the bow of the Lovely Maria.

Consternation seemed to grip all living things. The great alligators churned the surface of the lake and dived in terror. Birds, full-throated a moment before, were stricken to a choking silence. On both ships men stood as if frozen.

Don Fernando had gone white as a newly unfurled sail. A solid shot across the bows was a warning to stop. Ordinarily it meant that fail-contests during this past week: Boys' games: the sophomores defeated the seniors by a score of 30 to 26; 8A defeated 8C by a score of 18 to 17; and 8A defeated 7A by a score of 26 to 15. Girls' games: the junior girls defeated the freshman, 23 to 12; and 8A defeated 7A by a score of 23 to 15.

"Melodies through the Years" will be the theme for the monthly meeting of the Woman's Community club Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock in the P. O. S. of A. hall. This meeting is being held 45 minutes later than usual because of the Lenten church services in the community.

The program committee for the meeting consists of Mrs. Fred Blocher, chairman, Mrs. Paul Bowman, Miss Evelyn Hornberger, Mrs. E.

ure to do so would be followed by a volley. And the ships, powerful enough under ordinary circumstances, would be powerless against a shore battery.

At point-blank range such a battery could sink both ships. With scarcely enough wind to give steerage, they could not run. The great question was as to the strength of the armament threatening them. (To be continued)

Roy Kindig, Mrs. Ralph Staley, and Mrs. Edwin P. Staley. Hostesses will be Mrs. Orville C. Sentz, Mrs. Edward Brown, Mrs. Emory Gitt, Mrs. Roy Renner and Mrs. Luther Ritter.

Scout Birthday Party

The fourth annual Girl Scout birthday party will be held Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the social hall of Redeemer's Reformed church. The troop committee and leaders of the intermediate and senior troops are in charge of arrangements. The Brownie troops and Troop No. 12 will join in the party. This party, which will be in the form of a tea, is not only in observance of the local anniversary but also in observance of the 37th anniversary of girl scouting. Each troop will present a portion of the program. Troop No. 13 will be the hostess troop and two of its members, Mary Lou Boyd and Penn Nester will preside at the tea table. Refreshments for the occasion will be furnished by the troop committee members of the Brownie, Intermediate and Senior troops. Parents of the scouts are invited to attend.

The monthly meeting of the Loyalty class, Mrs. Carl Baumgardner, teacher, of St. Paul's Lutheran church will be held Monday at 8:30 p. m. in the church instead of 7:30 a. m. as previously announced. This change of time has been made to enable the members of the class to attend the Girl Scout birthday party in Redeemer's Reformed church.

MEDITERRANEAN PACT TALK IS STIRRING RUSSIA

Ankara, Turkey, March 12 (AP)—Russia seems to be making guarded but anxious inquiries into possible formation of a Mediterranean defense alliance which would be linked to the projected North Atlantic pact. There were strong indications that Russian Ambassador Alexander Lavrishev has discussed the proposed Mediterranean agreement in recent conversations here with envoys of other nations.

Diplomatic sources said he talked in the last three weeks with ambassadors of France, Italy, Great Britain, Greece and, perhaps, the United States. American sources withheld comment.

Urged By Turkey

Foreign Minister Necmedden Sadak of Turkey said he had no information about Lavrishev talking with Turkish foreign office officials about a Mediterranean regional treaty.

Diplomatic sources in London said earlier that Russia had asked the Turkish foreign office about Turkey's interest in such an agreement.

Russia and Turkey have a common border of more than 200 miles.

Turkish officials as far back as six months ago urged formation of a regional security belt in the eastern Mediterranean area.

The British informants said Turkey told Russia in reply that the suggested arrangement would be aimed at securing peace, and not against the Soviet Union.

Russia is expected to come out strongly against any Mediterranean pact—if and when it seems to be taking shape. The Soviet has called the proposed Atlantic agreement an aggressive alliance against Russia.

persons living in the vicinity. The Hampton Fire company was summoned. While the firemen were going to the scene, Mrs. Dorothy Smith, a neighbor, and a postman who was in the area, liberated two dogs belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Rutters. The animals, both Boxers, were in a runway built beside the home. The Hampton firemen said that they might have saved part of the home and its furnishings had there been a sufficient supply of water nearby. The fire apparatus was connected with a well and water was pumped for a brief time until the supply was exhausted. With no other sources of water nearby, the firemen were helpless.

Lost in the building, in addition to furnishings, which included a number of antiques, were clothing, wedding gifts, and citations and medals won by Rutters while serving in the Pacific Theater.

Mr. and Mrs. Rutters were at their places of employment in Hanover when the fire broke out. They had left home Thursday morning at about 7:30 o'clock.

The couple spent Thursday night at the home of Mr. Rutters' mother, Mrs. Miriam A. Rutters, Hanover. They are seeking to locate an apartment in Hanover.

The house which was burned was formerly a schoolhouse. Rutters had had it remodeled, doing much of the work himself. He and his bride occupied the home immediately after their marriage on November 6.

CHOOZY THIEVES TAKE BEST GEMS

Philadelphia, March 12 (AP)—Two robbers, choosy of their loot, tied up two persons in a jewelry store and then leisurely selected $10,000 of the best merchandise before fleeing undetected.

The thugs bound and gagged a clerk and a salesman yesterday in a busy West Philadelphia store. One man carried a gun.

Victims of the robbery were Thomas Babalan, 22, clerk in the store and son of the owner, and Jerome Shapiro, 42, a jewelry salesman.

Police said the two robbers apparently followed Shapiro into the store.

Babalan said he offered the two men a trayful of costume jewelry but one of the thugs brushed it aside with the comment:

"We don't want that junk."

Stolen were diamond rings and expensive watches. An unlocked safe containing rings and about $200 in cash was not touched.

Harry Weant, who has been a patient at the Warner hospital for several weeks is reported much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Stoness of Chicago have returned home after spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Stoness.

Mrs. Charles Bollinger returned home Sunday from the Warner hospital much improved from a fall she received at her home about a week ago.

Answer Fire Alarm

The Emmitsburg Fire company responded to a call at 6 o'clock Monday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Gartrell, Taneytown, road. Slight damage was done by a burning log in the fire place.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hofstetter, Mt.

Rainier, Md., spent several days during the week with Mrs. Hofstetter's mother, Mrs. Albert Adelsberg.

The Sodality of the Blessed Virgin of St. Joseph's Catholic church held its monthly meeting on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Mollie Reynolds. Twenty-one members were present. The president, Mrs. J. Lewis Topper, presided and recited the opening prayer. The treasurer's report showed a balance on hand of $132.47. Mrs. Chrismer reported having cleared $9.75 at her house party on February 17. The president announced that $186 had been cleared at the card party February 24, and thanked everyone for cooperating. It was moved and seconded that the Sodality buy three dozen packs of playing cards. Mrs. Guy A. Baker donated a bingo set. It was decided that the next evening of games would be held on Tuesday evening, March 22, in the Recreation room of St. Euphemia's school with Mrs. Donald Stoner as hostess. Admission will be 25 cents and a prize and each one present will receive a prize. The president thanked Mrs. Harry Shoemaker for the angel food cake donated for the card party on February 24 which was won by Mrs. Edwin Chrismer. Approximately $8 was realized. The next meeting will be held on April 4th. The closing prayer was recited by the president, after which refreshments were served and cards and bingo were enjoyed.

Diplomats, Lehigh, State Lead Tourney

Ithaca, N. Y., March 12 (AP)—Defending champion Lehigh university; Franklin and Marshall, last year's runner-up, and powerful Penn State led the 16-team tournament of the Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling association at Cornell university Friday.

All eight men of the teams of three colleges won their preliminary bouts and automatically entered the quarter-finals.

Penn State, with seven falls in eight matches, led the team scoring with seven points.

The other scores: Franklin and Marshall 6, Lehigh 5, Pennsylvania, Army, Cornell and Navy and Syracuse, 3 each; and Princeton, Yale and Columbia 1 each.

Virginia, Temple and Harvard failed to score. Brown and Dartmouth failed to win a bout and were eliminated.

Plan To Establish More 4-H Clubs

Assistant County Agent Ira N. Dummire has announced plans for establishment of 4-H dairy, poultry, and raspberry clubs in the county.

The 4-H program is being pushed at the present time as part of 4-H week activities in the county, Dummire said.

Dummire said that so far about 15 youths have signified their intention of joining a dairy club and that about ten have shown a desire to join a poultry club. The planned raspberry club has just gotten underway he revealed following a meeting at Biglerville at which parents were asked to interest their youngsters in the idea.

Alabama was the 28th state to join the union.

RADIO

New York, March 12 (AP)—Indications now are that Fred Allen will be back on the air next season, but with a changed format. He has proposed a series whereby he would become a commentator on the day's news developments.

NBC, the network over which his Sunday night comedy show has run for several years, is said to look favorably upon the idea. The assumption is that something of the technique used in the current main street and former Allen's Alley interviews would be carried over into the new broadcasts. They would run 15 minutes each, five times a week.

Accused Of Looting Caledonia Cabins

A charge of burglary was filed before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore this morning against Roy Daywalt, 44, of South Mountain, as a result of a state police investigation into a series of burglaries at cabins and other places in Adams and Franklin counties during recent weeks.

Daywalt was arrested Friday night and placed in jail in Chambersburg, according to State Police-man James Walsh, who filed the charge here. The warrant obtained this morning charges him with entering the cabin of Mr. and Mrs. Paul F. Leese, York, between Caledonia and Pine Grove Furnace, about March 1.

Daywalt is charged with taking blankets, towels, bedding, pots and pans, tools, knives and forks. Most of the loot was recovered, state police said.

SENATE HEADS ARE DEFEATED ON "GAG" RULE

By EDWIN B. HARRISON

Washington, March 12 (AP)—Senate leaders juggled a tough decision today after a major setback in their efforts to crack a southern filibuster against a proposed debate-gag rules change.

The big question: Should they continue the fight?

Last night's defeat knocked out of the administration's hands its main weapon against the Dixie talkathon. By a 46 to 41 vote the Senate overruled Vice President Barkley's decision that two thirds of the members could gag debate on a motion if they wanted.

Some Ready To Quit

The rules change—which both southerners and Senate leaders described as an opening wedge for civil rights bills—would make official the very ruling the Senate voted against last night. It is against the motion to bring up such a rules change that the southerners have been talking.

Democratic Leader Lucas (D-Ill.) hinted broadly that administration forces were ready to call quits, in order to get at a list of top-priority measures which have piled up in the past 12 days.

But other high Democrats said privately they understood President Truman favored a fight to the finish, although Mr. Truman, vacationing in Key West, Fla., declined any comment.

Yesterday's meeting lasted 10 hours and 41 minutes before the vote on Barkley's ruling broke it up. But it didn't end until Democratic and Republican leaders had accused each other of scuttling the fight against civil rights.

Minority In Control

Lucas and Deputy Democratic Chief Myers of Pennsylvania put the blame on the 23 GOP senators who teamed up with 23 Dixie Democrats to defeat the initial anti-filibuster move.

Republican Leader Wherry of Nebraska retorted that Lucas had staged a "pink tea" effort to break the talk-fest.

After it was all over, Senator Pepper (D-Fla.), casting about for a way to break the log jam and let through important bills, talked about a "compromise."

"We've got to work out something," Pepper told a reporter. "In this crucial stage we can't be paralyzed by a minority. If we can get a compromise that is real, meaningful and substantial, it will be all right."

LEAVES HOSPITAL

Mrs. Ray M. Hoffman, Howard avenue, who has been a patient in the Polyclinic hospital at Harrisburg since March 4 recuperating from multiple lacerations, abrasions and bruises of the head and body, suffered in an automobile accident, was discharged from the hospital today and returned to her home here.

Fenton Daugherty, national director of fraternity scholarship; Phi Sigma Kappa, Dr. Stuart Rudisill, national chaplain, and Carl Chronister, regional director; Tau Kappa Epsilon, national president.

Judge Frank Myers, chairman of the national interfraternity conference, was also present. Fraternity members were present as guests of the undergraduate council from Dickinson, Bucknell, Western Maryland, Lehigh and Muhlenberg.

Co-Eds "Crash" Gate

Although two local fire police were engaged to prevent coeds from attending the get-together about 20 managed to gain entrance and viewed the "skits" from the gymnasium balcony.

At the conclusion of the last skit a score or more students ran to the balcony and carried the coeds to the stage amid shouts of "into the showers," "make 'em sing" and other appeals. However, after a few minutes under the "spotlight" the coeds were ushered from the gymnasium.

Opposes "Hell" Week

Judge Frank H. Myers, national interfraternity chairman and associate judge of the Municipal Court of the District of Columbia, told 200 fraternity pledges at a pledge banquet at Hotel Gettysburg Friday evening that he was "opposed to any type of 'Hell' Week or its implication."

A graduate of George Washington university where he became a member of Kappa Alpha order, Judge Myers said that it was essential that the fraternities do the best they can to improve scholarship. He explained that failure to improve scholarship has caused public sentiment against the fraternities.

A "birthday breakfast" was held by Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson at which he played host to the visiting national fraternity officers, this morning at Hotel Gettysburg.

FRATS ARE TOLD 4 MASKED MEN GET $6,000 LOOT

Emmitsburg, Pa., March 12 (AP)—Four masked gunmen raided the Rose Bowl cafe and bar early today, tied up a dozen patrons and fled with $6,000 in cash and jewelry.

Three of the gunmen entered the cafe, 337 North Queen street, by a side door shortly before closing time. The fourth stood at the front door as a look out.

Waving pistols, they quickly tied patrons to bar stools with adhesive tape and rope.

Then they forced John A. Coluzzi, owner of the night spot, to open a safe in his office.

They swept up some $4,000, the week's payroll—and grabbed the day's receipts which Coluzzi had placed in the safe. Then one of them saw a diamond ring flashing on Coluzzi's finger and ordered:

"Take it off."

Coluzzi said one of the men looked like a man who had come into his bar one night last week.
